The Treasury Department of the United States announces that for the month of August, Mississippi's E Bond Quota remains at the same figure it was in the month of July. Mississippians, and residents of Hancock County are called upon to invest in war bonds and stamps to their utmost.

The State of Mississippi failed to reach its quota in the months of June and July and with the War Finance Program enlarging the war savings program, and with preparations beginning for the September 3rd War Loan Drive, we are reminded that our quota this month for Hancock County is $18,500.00 which will require accelerated buying of War Savings Bonds and Stamps.

NURSERY SCHOOL PROJECT SHOULD HAVE SUPPORT

Program Under Direct Supervision of S. J. Ingram And Miss Florence Jennings

Are the people of Bay St. Louis unintentionally letting the extended school service program for their city go by unheeded? If they are they should visit the three schools and see what is really being done for the children of the mothers who have to be away from home the greater part of the day.

There are three units to this program and each is equally important.

The nursery school which is housed in the Webb school building is a very attractive place for your children. There have been several later improvements—the floors have been covered with battle ship linoleum, an addition has been made to the lavatory by removing part of the partition in the back hall and the additional floor space has been covered. New lockers have been installed and a set of doll furniture has been made.

Here you find a contented, happy group of pre-school age children in the hands of competent, trained teachers.

In the Central school is a unit for school age children who would otherwise be at loose ends while their parents are employed who are taken care of during the day. It is instructive as well as entertaining as is evident in the club room. There are instructive and constructive toys and here the children write and act out their own plays and learn to use both hands and brain in the different types of work and play.

A work room looks up for the future and as soon as it is equipped will have their outlets for their talents and surplus energy.

Mr. Rooney, Bay High Band leader, is giving the pupils band practice and they will soon have their own band.

A third unit is the youngest one recently opened at the Valena C. Jones school which has the same equipment as the one at Webb school. The enrollment is steadily growing and there is no doubt that it will soon enroll a sufficient number to make it almost self supporting.

The money for these comes from the Lanham Act fund but that is only a part of the amount required so each unit is trying to supply as much as possible of the needed amount.

No financial aid is drawn from the city or county funds.

This entire program is under the general supervision of S. J. Ingram and Miss Florence Jennings supervisor.

At the Central school Miss Mary Perkins is in charge of the school age group; at the Webb school Mrs. A. L. May and Elizabeth Becker take care of the pre-school age. At the Valena C. Jones school Mrs. Ada Pollard and Miss Hazel Smith have the pre-school age children.

It is hardly to be imagined that this set up is not thoroughly understood. It is a rare opportunity and should be patronized and supported.

Our children are our most valuable possessions and nothing is too much to do for them. It is hoped that this project will have the hearty and full support of the people. Visit so each unit is trying to supply as the units and see what it is like.

CONSTABLE

GERALD V. PRICE

Gerald V. Price was reelected Constable of Beat Five over two opponents. He has served as Constable of this Beat for the past six years.

Cliff Cowan Reelected District Attorney

Cliff Cowan, District Attorney for the Second Judicial District of Mississippi was reelected on Tuesday, defeating his opponent Luther Maples with returns from the five counties complete, by approximately 1300 votes. Hancock County gave Mr. Cowan a majority of over 500 votes.

RED CROSS TO CONDUCT HOME NURSING CLASSES

LEARN TO GUARD THE HOME FRONT!

Red Cross Home Nursing Classes will begin Monday, August 9th at 3:00 p. m. These classes will be held at the Red Cross Home Nursing cottage, 608 North Beach Boulevard, which has been loaned for this purpose by Mrs. M. W. Briggs. Miss Lena Mason, County Health Nurse and chairman of Red Cross Home Nursing will conduct the classes.

In these times, the American Red Cross considers it a primary obligation to provide an opportunity for every woman to learn to keep her family well and to give simple nursing care in case of illness. The Army and Navy have asked for 36,000 nurses this year. These nurses must be released in ever-increasing numbers to take care of the men who are fighting for our safety and security.

It is our obligation to be better equipped to protect the health of our families, and to give good nursing care when and if illness comes.

During an emergency of any kind, it is taken for granted that any woman would use her intelligence and knowledge gained through this course to help her neighbor or the community. This is in accord with the spirit of neighborliness which has always been fostered by the Red Cross.

The community needs every ounce of manpower and womanpower it can muster and it particularly needs to conserve the health of its babies and its growing boys and girls. In the original and broadest sense of the word, this is all nursing work, for nursing means the conservation and protection of life, the nourishing and fostering of strength and vitality, whether in the sick or well.

The Red Cross Home Nursing is a means of strengthening the home against illness and accident, and maintaining its morale in the face of difficulties.

This is the greatest contribution any girl or woman can make to the strength and welfare of her county. Enroll NOW. Call American Red Cross Office, 185, Civilian Defense Office, 258; or County Health Department, 63 for full particulars.

THE ANSWER

THE answer to the charge that the previous elections of A. G. Favre as Clerk of Courts of Hancock County were made possible by the votes of a controlled electorate, has been written.

It was charged previous to this election that this time there would be an expression by the people of the county who were free to vote as they chose, without being dominated, controlled, or coerced through fear of the person. This was quite an indictment against the voters of the county, and they answered the charge by reelecting the present Clerk of Courts by a very flattering majority.

We are, indeed, very happy that the opposition came out into the open with these charges, so that there could be a clear-cut decision in the matter. In fact, this was the only issue in the race.

The people of Hancock County know the faults and failures of their officers, and they know that this was one charge that was not true. They also know that "Red" Favre has always tried to help his friends, and the people of this county well know that in many instances he has helped people of a different political thought.

It is certainly the right of a man holding a political office to protect his own interest wherever possible, without infringing upon the rights of the public; and we have often wondered, if the opposition had been in the same position, would they have not followed the same course.

And since we think of it, the opposition had complete control of the W. P. A. and other Federal agencies during the time that Senator Bilbo controlled the heads of these Bureaus, and well can we remember how a certain man in Hancock County, who was the leader of the opposing political faction, demanded to know how the people who made application for assistance would vote, before they would be given a job.

This is all history, but we should remember that all political questions, like everything else, usually have two sides, and the people of the county knowing the facts, have rendered their decision.

IN MISSISSIPPI

INCOMPLETE but fairly representative returns from the Mississippi primary make sure that former Governor Mike Conner will lead his nearest rival handsomely when all of the votes are counted.

There is a close race for second place between Thomas L. Bailey, former speaker of the House, and Lieutenant-Governor Dennis Murphree, backed by Governor Paul B. Johnson. Trailing in third place is Lester C. Franklin, Jackson attorney, who was backed by United States Senator Theodore G. Bilbo.

It appears that the voters of Mississippi were not guided by the selections of both their governor and United States senator. One peculiar angle of the race was that Mr. Johnson and Mr. Bilbo, who had been close political allies in the last gubernatorial campaign when the senator supported the present governor, split in this fight.

The result of Tuesday's primary, in case there is a run-off, which seems certain, between Mr. Conner and either Mr. Murphree or Mr. Bailey, insures the people of Mississippi an opportunity to vote for candidates who have served the people in the past. Their records are open for the consideration of the voters, judged on performances.

One thing about the Mississippi primary is that there are no charges of fraud. There has been no vote stealing, ballot-box stuffing, or any other kind of irregularities of any material consequence. Mississippians have their knock-down and drag-out fights, but they are in the open, and the results are accepted in good grace. There is little sabotaging of an administration, after elections so notable in Louisiana by the Whang-Doodlers and their ilk. Mississippians, as a usual thing, when the battle is over, forget their differences and work for the glory and betterment of their state.—N. O. States, Wednesday, Aug. 4, 1943.

TEACHING HISTORY

THE State of Illinois, by legislation, requires all public schools and other educational institutions, supported by public funds, to teach United States history and the principles of representative government.

It also requires that pupils receive an understanding of the Australian ballot system and the counting of votes.

While it is perfectly obvious that the teaching of history varies in many respects, dependent upon the attitude of the teacher, there is much to be said in favor of the legislation, recently approved by Governor Green. Certainly, Americans should know the history of their country and understand the voting system that enables them to elect leaders.

The purpose of instructing pupils in the history of this country is to enable them to be effective and intelligent citizens. This means that they should be taught both sides of controversial issues, whether they affect economics, politics or society.

We believe that the pupils of our schools should have a knowledge of our country's "glorious" history, but we believe just as strongly, that they should have a thorough understanding of the episodes which are not quite so glorious.

Like every other nation, we have some mistakes on our record and it is important that they be studied and understood.

"CRASH DIVE" TO BE AT A. & G. THEATER THIS SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Called "Action Picture of the Year—First Story of America's Fighting Sailors—

Out of the Atlantic, graveyard of a thousand ships and one of the most fiercely fought-for areas in the present war, comes "Crash Dive."

The first picture of overseas fighting to be produced since America entered the war, the film is the thrill-packed story of the fighting men who in their "pig boats" are wreaking havoc and destruction on the enemy.

Starred in the film is Tyrone Power, in his farewell performance as a civilian. 20th Century-Fox has spared no expense in bringing all the thrills, adventure and excitement of life aboard the sub to the screen in Technicolor. The film is slated to open Sunday at the A. & G. Theater.

Out of a sea afire with danger, Power, as a junior officer aboard a sub, leads his men on a bold commando raid. Again they face death aboard the depth-bombed steel fish. Operating from the great naval submarine base at New London, Conn., where much of the picture was made, these men strike ceaselessly at the enemy. They live up to their credo, as expressed by one of the men:

"... And with terror and flame we shall hit the enemy where it hurts most... until he doesn't know his bow from his stern!"

There is time, nevertheless, for those precious, stolen moments of love. And in this dynamic film, Ann Baxter plays opposite the dashing Power. Dana Andrews, who with Miss Baxter, heads the featured cast, is shown as the commander of the submarine—a two-fisted, hard-fighting sea dog who has worked his way up from the ranks.

That the film would pack authenticity from the start was assured when it became known that much of the film was to be made on location at the Navy's great submarine base in New London, Conn.

With the express permission of the Navy, the gigantic Technicolor cameras photographed the submarine Albacore, where much of the action takes place. A glass bell was on the deck of the sub, allowing for many unusual photographic effects. Commander M. K. Kirkpatrick, U. S. N., acted as technical adviser on the film which was produced by Milton Sperling. The featured cast includes James Gleason and Dane May Whitty. The screen play was by Jo Swerling, from an original story by W. R. Burnett.

Waveland News

Dielmann Center

The Dielmann Center of the Evangelical and Reformed church located on Waveland Beach Boulevard near Waveland avenue offers to the people of its church and others interested a full Christian "camp program." The entire summer is divided into ten day periods with different age groups participating.

The 1943 session opened with the younger girls camp, ages 9-14.

The camp had a banner year with an attendance of 50. Then "family camp" which followed provides a fine opportunity for an entire family to enjoy Christian fellowship.

Sixty-six boys then took over the center turning the place into the Indian Camp of "Chick-Ka-Gamo, with two Indian tribes. The Apache and the Seminoles ruling for 10 days.

The next period was set aside for the "business girls" who enjoyed every moment of their stay at the camp. The leadership training camp (L. T. S.) is one of the high points of the season. Here the young people of the church share a truly Christian fellowship with emphasis on training for work in the church schools. In general all of the camps follow a similar program consisting of: Morning worship, instruction periods, athletic events, handicraft, swimming, group singing, twilight services. Night program of various sorts.

A new service has been instituted at Dielmann Center through the efforts of Reverend O. C. Laubegayer of the Bethel Evangelical and Reformed Church in New Orleans.

Every Sunday afternoon during the summer a service will be conducted at 2:30 to which everyone interested is invited.

This service will continue through the winter months if the citizens of Waveland and elsewhere on the coast are interested in its continuance.

To the Voters of Beat No. Five:
 I am taking this method of thanking you for the splendid support given me in my race for Constable. I was elected over my two opponents in the first primary.

I hold no ill feelings towards those who saw fit to vote against me, while I feel very grateful to those who gave me their support and hope I can compensate them by giving my best towards keeping peace and order.

Your friend,
 G. V. PRICE

 NUMBER FIVE:
 I want to thank you for the splendid support given me in my race for Board of Supervisors. I also solicit your support for the second primary. It is very gratifying to know that your friends are behind you. Many of the voters did not see fit to give me their support in the first primary, but it is very pleasant to know that many who did not, are now coming to me in the second. I shall be in a better position to contact you than I was in the first primary as illness handicapped me. Again thanking you and soliciting your support, I am,

Your friend,
 HORACE KERGOSIEN.

CELEBRATES 83RD

Mr. John A. Green, Sr., recently celebrated his 83rd birthday at his home on South Beach. At no time can Mr. Green and 83 years of age be associated as he is active and alert and is a prize gardener since his retirement from the L. & N. Railroad after fifty years of service.

In the early morning he raises the stars and stripes on his flag pole on his lawn and at evening tide he lowers it and never once forgetting so it is evident that the fires of patriotism are still alive in his heart. He gave his sons in World War I and now he has a grandson in the armed forces.

The Echo is extending congratulations to Mr. Green and best wishes for many more happy birthdays.
